

Samantha Hornery

Help when learning is hard

Samantha Hornery has been in operation in Sydney's south and south-west since 1994. Over this time Samantha has been providing assessments, individualized tutoring and referral services for children with learning difficulties and disabilities. The philosophy of the service has remained consistent throughout this time – children with learning difficulties have enormous potential to improve and targeted services for their specific needs are required.

The current range of services include:

Academic Assessments. A comprehensive academic assessment, considering the key areas of literacy and numeracy, can be organized for your child. Consideration of previous assessments and interventions will be synthesized with the current results to provide you with relevant information about your child's academic functioning, areas for additional assessment and strategies for intervention. This assessment will take 1-1½ hours to complete and a detailed report will be prepared on the basis of this assessment. The cost of this assessment is $395.

Individual Tutoring. Weekly tutoring sessions of one-hour duration can be booked with Samantha. These sessions will be personalized to cater for the specific learning needs of your child. Weekly one hour sessions cost $80 per hour during school terms.

Consultancy. A range of services can be arranged for schools and other educational institutions to gain further insight into the field of learning disabilities and learn new strategies to work with children with learning disabilities. Consultancy rates are $210 for the first hour and $110 for each hour thereafter.

Dr Samantha Hornery has worked as a special educator in a variety of school and private settings working with children with learning disabilities. Throughout her career Samantha has sought to improve the educational outcomes of children with learning disabilities by providing advice, programs and training for families, professionals and most importantly, children.

Dr Samantha Hornery holds a Doctor of Philosophy (2011 – University of Western Sydney) and Bachelor of Education (Primary – Sydney University).
